

Roni Nicole is a Houston, Texas born female professional wrestler based in Raleigh, North Carolina. At an early age Roni Nicole showed a passion for the entertainment industry. By the age of 8 she was regularly performing vocally at church functions as well as numerous pageants, dance recitals, and competitions. After graduating high school, Roni Nicole pursued higher education at two different collegiate institutions as well as becoming a published model, semi-professional cheerleader, dance/color-guard instructor and starring in numerous independent film and theatrical productions such as ' For Colored Girls'. Growing up an avid but unguided wrestling fan, Roni Nicole was unsure of how to enter into the business, however, a training opportunity with NightStic Eddie Brown at Ring Wars Carolinas provided her the initial skills to enter the universe of wrestling. After moving to the training school of CW Andersons' cousin, Roni Nicole continued to hone and sharpen her skills under the tutelage of Former NWA Eastern States Champion/ National Champion Lou Marconi, ECW/WCW's Chilly Willy and Victor Andrews to name a few. Her most notable match to date was versus Tracy Smothers' daughter Jessie Belle Smothers at NWA Smoky Mountain in Churchill, Tennessee. Seeking to change the business for the better Roni Nicole strives to add an intensity and ferocity to her matches not seen in most female talent today. “ When you step in the ring, bring it. All of your strength, all of your passion. This sport has been treated with kid gloves for too long. That's why I show No Mercy.” – Roni Nicole
