

Benedetta Montana Atti (born June, 28th 1996), better known under the stage name "Montana B", tells it like it is, whether performing on stage, or in conversation. Hailing from London UK, Montana B is an up and coming R&B and Hip-Hop artist, only giving you the real, passion, and love through her music. Montana B is the type of artist that makes her music resonate because it is one-hundred percent the truth at all times. When you are listening to Montana B, you know you are listening to Montana B, who is known for her vividly confessional lyricism.

Montana B is a unique blend of Italian and Nigerian, drawing in musical influences from her cultural background. Montana B was always surrounded by music, listening to artists such as Frank Sinatra, Amy Winehouse, and Diana Ross. In school, Montana B studied classical pieces on the guitar and voice, and knew from that moment onwards, that she wanted to create music and work in the creative industry. Later on, in sixth form education, Montana B formed a band, mostly performing rock covers of Nirvana, The Cranberries, as well as performing some originals. The band broke up just a year later, however, this did not stop Montana B from creating and performing music. Montana B enrolled at The University of Westminster where she studied Commercial Music Performance. Since studying at University, Montana B has performed at many different venues, such as 'The Roundhouse', and 'Nambucca'; making a name for herself as the new 'Up and coming RnB princess'. Montana B has released a number of singles on her soundcloud, which has received outstanding feedback worldwide. She is currently working on her first mixtape titled "ALPHA".
