

Jay Leonhart and Tomoko Ohno

New York: bookings@jayleohart.com

Los Angeles: jeannine@frankentertainment.com

The Great Northwest: edunsavage@gmail.com

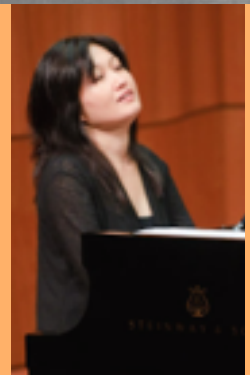

Jay Leonhart and Tomoko Ohno are one dynamic duo. They ramble through Jay Leonhart's songs and music with well scripted abandon.

These two top jazz musicians are now bringing their talent and humor to the world's stages.

Jay and Tomoko have become two New York favorites as their regular appearances in the New York jazz clubs, cabarets and concert halls attest to.

Critics rave about Jay Leonhart and they love Tomoko unconditionally.

BITS & BEATS

JAZZ'S FUNNIEST MUSICIANS

JAY LEONHART

With classic dry wit, Leonhart is known not only for clever songs like "Me and Lenny," his self-effacing ode to airplane seatmate Leonard Bernstein, but also for longform storytelling, as in The Bass Lesson, his one-man show about a life spent lugging around that most cumbersome of instruments.