

The Marty Knepp Trio

The trio is made of of Clem Ehoff Piano, Jason Gano Bass, Marty Knepp Drums. The birth of the trio started some 3 years at a big band rehearsal for a upcoming gig. As we joined forces to play an upfront set for the big band Magic was created. After that the trio began to work regularly. The love we have for the piano based trio is close to our love for Latin Jazz. Whether it is a standard or one of Clem's incredible songs, We promise that you will be moving to our Groove.

Our liner notes from our debut cd "Dialogue" says it all.

There is something magical about improvisation. Serious musicians spend countless hours studying harmony, listening to recordings, and practicing on their instrument. Yet despite all the hard work there are nights when the musicians seem to soar above the clouds. And looking for that "magic" in the next performance is what motivates them to carry on.

There is something magical about this trio. We seem to have a compatibility that is unlike any trio that I have been associated with. Egos have been put aside. Listening to each other as we play is of prime importance. It is as if we are having an internal conversation with each other while we are having an external conversation with the listener. This is a musical phenomenon that I have not experienced before.

Listen to the dialogue. We hope that you enjoy it as much as we did putting it together.

Please remember that " a groove is a terrible thing to waste™"
